The War in Ethiopia

In the early stages of Italy's invasion of Ethiopia, there was a general feeling outside the two countries that topographical and climatic conditions would soon best the invaders, and that the black fighters would also show more strength than has since been evident. The defeat of Italy forty years ago was recalled with zest, and there were many who believed that catastrophe would be repeated.

But the picture has been startlingly different. Today the main Ethiopian forces are broken and fleeing from an Italian army that has almost completed victory to its credit. The "army on wheels," motorized, mechanized and supported by planes, has gone steadily ahead, climate and rough country to the contrary notwithstanding. Wholesale slaughter has wrecked the crudely-armed defending units, helpless against heavy artillery, machine guns and bombs dropped from planes.

The Italian victory has been due to modern military science. The contending armies are not equal as they were at Adwa forty years ago. The Ethiopians, still fighting by the old rules, have no recourse against the trained men of Mussolini who fight by the modern rules, unsportsmanlike though they may seem.

That Italy will conquer Ethiopia and dictate its own peace terms there can now be little doubt. The League of Nations, with its many elements to satisfy, cannot act quickly enough to stem the tide of conquest, no matter what sanctions it may seek to impose. Nations opposing Italy will move more cautiously, knowing she will have hundreds of thousands of veteran soldiers to throw into another war, once she has disposed of Ethiopia.

Odorless Cabbage

Scientists have at last developed an odorless variety of cabbage, and they assure the waiting public that within two years there will be enough seed to put the product on the market. The advent of the new vegetable may have wide significance.

The husband who rebels at "boiled dinners" may find his antipathy soothed when he fails to catch the smell of cabbage from the kitchen. Thus the lack of odor in the cooking of the cabbage may save many a domestic rift and rob the divorce court of would-be victims.

The development of an odorless cabbage would not have been undertaken if there had not been a demand for it. To many the taste is good but the smell is bad, and they have voiced their complaints until even the absent-minded scientists in their laboratories have heard and sought to bring help.

But the cabbage will nevertheless remain a favored article of diet. It admits of a wide variety of uses; it can be boiled, stewed, or prepared raw as slaw or salad. It can be pickled and made into kraut. The day of the kraut barrel may be gone from some communities, but not from all. The stuff still enjoys a wide sale in cans. Kraut alone can keep the cabbage business going, the odor not being taken into account.

We are reminded of the year the cabbage crop was short. One kraut eater was heard to remark, "We didn't put up much kraut at our house this season, only two or three barrels, so we'd have a little in case of sickness."

Panama Hats Off

If Uncle Sam ever wore a Panama hat, the present administration blew it off his head Monday when it announced that all rights to maintain order in the little republic of Panama had been abrogated by the United States. The maintenance of order in the ports at the canal terminals has been turned over to Panama, and the United States no longer guarantees the security of the little republic. If some other country chooses to seize Panama, we suppose Uncle Sam would stand by with his hands in his pockets.

Some Americans are wondering whether we still own the canal, which cost us nearly a billion dollars, or if the health gains made under American supervision in the isthmus are to be relinquished. Is the mosquito coming back to Panama?

Now that Panama is to be allowed to run her own business, we shall surely have a tariff on Panama hats, and they may be higher this season. Panama will doubtless reciprocate by assessing a tax on American tourists going through the canal. This reciprocity is great stuff if it isn't all one-sided.

Suffice it to say that, in turning Panama back to the Panamanians, we have once more become a "good neighbor," which is to be interpreted as letting our neighbors do as they please.

Cables from Garmisch-Partenkirchen, scene of the winter Olympics in Germany, recently carried a perfect portrayal of some of the less pleasant aspects of dictatorship.

Two persons were hurt, several fainted, and hundreds were bruised and scratched in a milling crowd which Nazi soldiers kept in the Olympic stadium for more than two hours, until Chancellor Hitler and other high officials had departed.

Many stood ankle-deep in mud, but this made no difference to the Nazi guards, ordered to hold back the crowds so that Reichsfuehrer Hitler might come and go with safety and ease. Intermittently, the Nazi salute was required of all.

But strangely, one correspondent cabled, most of these regimented thousands seemed satisfied. They had learned to bear the yoke meekly, which is perhaps the chief reason for giving thanks that America is not under a dictator.

The broom is a homely thing, but it hides many a beauty secret. If properly wielded, it will sweep into the dustpan everything but the good looks of its mistress.

Study of New Farm Plan Shows Progress Will Be Slow in 1936

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—The new farm program in its first year will be a crude makeshift insofar as its administration and operation are concerned.

It would be absurd to expect anything else. The administration is politically silly if it pretends to do more than that.

Transforming farm relief into a soil conservation plan is a gigantically complicated administrative job. Farm experts believe they could work out a good sound system within a year which would achieve their goals.

They are doing the best they can in a few weeks and there is more confusion and difference of opinion than progress.

The individual farmer, planning his crops for the year, wonders what he must do to qualify for the program and its payments. He won't know for weeks, perhaps months, whether, assuming he has a 300-acre farm, he will be expected to plant 50, 100 or 150 acres in soil-building or soil-conserving crops or both.

Cotton planting already has begun in part of the south. The corn belt begins planting oats late in March.

Congress passed a law giving Secretary Wallace and Administrator Chester Davis enormous power and left them with a correspondingly enormous job of planning and administration.

What Must Be Determined

Six thousand farmers theoretically are eligible to receive money for participation in the program. Fewer than 3,000,000 received AAA benefits. Now must be determined:

1. Standards of performance on each farm which will make the producer eligible for payments.

2. Amounts of grants for which each farmer will be eligible if he participates.

3. Mechanism for checking up on his compliance with the standards which he agrees to maintain for this year.

Net effects of the standards are supposed to be prevention of soil erosion and the building up of soil by planting of crops which draw nitrogen (plant food) from the air into the soil. "Cover crops" to be planted include grass, beans, soya beans, clover, alfalfa, cow peas, field peas, and lespedeza (bush clover).

Administrative technique—reaching the long arm of the national plan down to individual farms—will be similar to AAA's. Theoretically, at least, local committees will have to visit each farm and appraise its desirability from the standpoint of conservation and sound farming methods in relation to general standards handed down to them and to the rate of payments-per acre-per commodity as decided in Washington.

If the soil-crop acreage were to be 50, he might be told to keep five in corn and five in sorghums for his own needs and remove 30 acres from the 70 in cotton production to make up the total. He would be paid so much per cotton acre retired, so much per retired sorghum acre, so much per retired corn acre and perhaps a small sum per acre for reseeding of land already in soil crops.

Presumably he would be told what he might sell and might not sell, as some soil crops must be plowed under if the soil is to be improved.

How Payment Is Based

Another possibility is that of a farmer with 100 acres—60 in good farm land, 20 in second growth timber, 20 in marginal hills, gullied, and eroded land. The local group would have to decide whether his pasture land were being used in a soil-depleting way or not and the extent to which his good land was being worn out.

If he were found to be operating on 100 per cent conservation and farm management, he might or might not be rewarded in cash—that's to be decided.

The soil conservation act now says payments are to be made on annual basis:

1. Total acreage of crop land.

2. Acreage of soil crops.

3. Changes in use of land, such as letting land lie fallow or planting new types of crop.

4. Percentage of farmer's crop which corresponds to percentage of national crop in the same commodity which is consumed domestically.

Ferson Perils Huge Area

Wallace and Davis start with the National Resources Board's survey which says 25,000,000 to 35,000,000 acres have been ruined for farm purposes by erosion, about 100,000,000 acres are moving rapidly in that direction, more than 100,000,000 are beginning to erode badly, and most of the remaining 300,000,000 tend to decline in productivity.

Obviously impossible is the task in the first year of moving to save the 200,000,000 endangered acres while trying to maintain fertility of the other 300,000,000. The extent to which a small start can be made is limited by the appropriation of $500,000 for the 1936-37 fiscal year.

The administration might spend $2.50 an acre to take care of 200,000,000 acres—which would attract few farmers—or $500 an acre to take care of a million, which would be absurd. A current semi-current guess is that money will be paid out on 25 or 30 million acres affected by the program this year.

KLINE STORES NOW SINGLE CORPORATION

Carl Englund manager of the J. G. Kline store in Jacksonville yesterday explained an action by which the Kline stores in a number of Illinois cities have been incorporated as one unit, instead of individual units as formerly. Articles of dissolution of the various stores were filed recently with the Secretary of State, and the new corporation immediately formed to include all the stores.

"The technicality of incorporation does not affect the operation or policy of any of the stores," Mr. Englund said.

The action taken was merely a change in the form of corporation.

AERATING IMPROVES CANNED FOOD TASTE

By MARY E. DAGUE

NEA Service Staff Writer
Seems only the other day when the housekeeper who served meals out of a can was sensitive about her pile of empty tins and regarded with a feeling of approaching humility her more efficient sister who scorned the can opener. But now excellent modern and scientific methods of canning make it possible to have foods from a tin or glass that often are actually fresher and of better quality than the fresh prototypes.

In many respects the nutritive value of canned vegetables equals that of fresh ones. Unfortunately, housekeepers do not all know what to do with them after they leave the can.

First of all, canned foods should be properly aerated. All the air was expelled from the can during the canning process. This naturally results in a flat taste not uncommon to canned goods. As soon as a can is opened, the vegetables should be turned into a shallow bowl and allowed to stand ten or fifteen minutes. In this way the vegetables come in contact with the air and regain what they lost during canning.

Reheat in Own Juice

Also, vegetables should be reheated in the water in which they were canned. This water contains valuable nutrition and flavor, and if the vegetables are drained before reheating, both these properties are lost. An excellent plan in the case of vegetables of delicate flavor is to heat them in a shallow sauce pan, keeping the pan uncovered and allowing the water to evaporate completely. In this way the flavor and nutritive value are retained.

When canned vegetables are drained from their liquor for serving in salads, this liquor should be saved and used in soup. The juice of canned fruits can be used in salad dressing, fruit drinks, dessert sauces and jellied dishes.

Naturally, canned vegetables soon lose their appeal if they are served the same way day after day. Always season them well but do not depend solely on salt and pepper and butter. Lemon juice, vinegar and tomato juice improve the flavor of such vegetables as spinach, beets and green beans. Corn and succotash are given zest by the addition of sweet red and green peppers. Grated cheese may be a ed to the white sauce for creamed and scalloped vegetables. Onion, celery, parsley, horseradish, chives and mint are vegetable flavoring possibilities that are well worth keeping in mind.

Butter and Bacon Seasoning

Butter and bacon fat add flavor to vegetables that probably no amount of other condiments can give. A more pronounced flavor is obtained if the butter is melted and slightly browned before the hot vegetable is added.

A variety of canned foods on the emergency shelf will save many an otherwise embarrassing situation when unexpected guests arrive. What with all the soups and meat and fish and fruits and vegetables that are available in cans one never need be at a loss for something to serve.

Mr. Morris said: "Festive nights were impossible and I had headaches and aches all the time. The doctor was poor. I had very little ambition to do anything after nights of frequent aching. I continued faithfully with this remedy and I am so thankful for the benefit I received."

JESUS SUBJECT IN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Christ Jesus" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 1. The Golden Text was, "Unto us a son is given; and the government shall be upon his shoulders" (Isaiah 9:6).

Among the citations which comprised the lesson sermon was the following from the Bible: "Behold my servant, whom I uphold; mine elect, in whom my soul delighteth; I have put my spirit upon him; he shall bring forth judgment to the Gentiles. . . . He shall not fail nor be discouraged, till he have set judgment in the earth; and the isles shall wait for his law" (Isaiah 42:1,4).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The advent of Jesus of Nazareth marked the first century of the Christian era, but the Christ is without beginning of years or end of days. Throughout all generations both before and after the Christian era, the Christ, as the spiritual idea,—the reflection of God,—has come with some measure of power and grace to all prepared to receive Christ, Truth" (p. 33).

Centenary Church Notes

The morning worship service was given to the observance of educational interests of the Methodist church and to MacMurray College in particular. A fine group of fourteen members occupied the choir loft leading the singing and Miss Winona Rawlings gave "God of Our Fathers" by Scott, with rare charm and effect, as a solo. The choir is under the direction of Prof. W. Z. Fletcher and Miss Verna Harder is the accomplished pianist.

The work of MacMurray was presented under the direction of Dr. McCelland who introduced Miss Rachel Lohman, Ashland, Miss; Meredith Storr, Long Island, N. Y., and Miss Geneva Carver, Horse Cave, Ky. These fine young women challenged their hearers to give MacMurray a more enthusiastic support of the high Christian and educational standards given her students.

Next Sunday Holy Communion will be observed. This will bring to a close the first half of the conference year.

Today at 2:30 the Mary Melton Missionary Society will meet at the parsonage. Founder's Day program will be presented by Mrs. Bambrook's group.

With weather conditions greatly moderated attendance in all departments showed a marked increase. A series of special church night services have been arranged for the pre-Easter period. These services will begin Wednesday evening at 6:30 with a pot-luck supper under the direction of the Ladies' Aid for this week. Those attending are asked to bring sandwiches, covered dish and table service. Special programs will be planned. Plan to attend. The official board will meet at 9:30 following.

Ice Jams Endanger
Bridge Near Pearl;

Cargo of Floating Ice;
Lowlands Flooded

White Hall—The Illinois river at Pearl and Kampsville was rising rapidly Sunday. The ferry at both places was closed on account of the floating ice, although the gorges had passed through that way and were at their worst on Friday. At Pearl ferry which is located just south of the Alton railway bridge on the Roodhouse-Kansas City line, the ice formed gorges several times during the day which backed up the water, and then would break loose and the water stage would fall rapidly until another gorge formed. The roaring and crashing sounds were terrific at times.

Some piling and lights on the river bridge were torn away, and it was feared that the piers under the railroad bridge might have been weakened by the pressure of the ice which sometimes formed large rifts as high as the piers and extensions where the bridge is turned to let boats go through the channel. A carpenter gang from Louisiana, Missouri, was working on the bridge Sunday, and watchmen were kept on duty all night.

John Jones, ferryman at Pearl, who lives on the point of the large levee on the bank of Hurricane creek which flows into the Illinois at the railroad bridge, stated that the river stage was 123 feet Saturday night but had been rising all day Sunday. He had to remove his car from his

Water Over Camp Grounds

The Nelson camp and picnic grounds are located just south of the Jones house, and the Jones family use water from a well on the picnic grounds, which is a pipe driven about fifty feet into the earth. It is necessary to use a boat to reach this well from the Jones home, and if the water in the river gets much higher they will be compelled to drive up the levee about half a mile to the Lee Berline home or go in a boat up the Hurricane creek to Hillview four miles distant for drinking water. The river is nearly as high now as it was at the height of the flood last year and three years ago.

Three years ago the high water washed out the pumping station in the Hartwell Drainage district southwest of Hillview, causing the river to overflow the entire district, and it has just been restored so that the farmers in the district planted wheat the last fall. Farmers in the school district all moved out and for two years there were no pupils to attend the McWilliams school located in the river bottoms. The school was re-opened last September and has been in session since.

Mr. and Mrs. John Russinkle of Murrayville were callers in Jacksonville yesterday.

St. Louis Cardinals Are Sure They Will Cop Flag In 1935; Willing to Bet

By Eddie Briez

Bradenton, Fla., March 2.—(P)—The St. Louis Gas House boys, their cheeks bulging with chewing tobacco, are going around looking for suckers who will bet they don't win the National league pennant this year.

Except for the firm of Dean and Dean, all the two-fisted, loud-mouthed hell-for-leather gang is back in Bradenton, getting ready for what everybody here believes is going to be a Cardinal year from start to finish.

Manager Frank Frisch is giving the works twice daily to far and away the largest squad in south Florida. Nearly 30 athletes are in camp.

Thirty wear gray uniforms and are known as the first squad. The others, attired in white suits, are farm hands, mostly pitchers, imported from the various Cardinal outposts. Their job is to help whip the regulars into shape. Then they'll go back to the sticks.

Manager Frisch, never a great talker, actually beamed as he watched Pepper Martin, Collins and the other Cards slide into bases as furiously as the other Cards.

TRAINING CAMP NOTES

San Juan, Puerto Rico, March 2.—(P)—Manager Chuck Dressen consigned the care of 16 members of the Cincinnati Reds to Coaches Tom Sheehan and George Kelly today as they departed for the Dominican Republic where two games will be played before continuing the journey to Miami, Fla.

The remainder of the squad remained here for another week's workout before leaving for the mainland.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 2.—(P)—Manager Rogers Hornsby gave a free rein today to the St. Louis Browns on their first day of practice.

The squad of 37, twenty of them regulars, showed so much unexpected pep Hornsby abandoned plans to confine the first session to a lumbering drill, hauled out the batting cage and let even his veteran pitchers take a turn on the mound.

Hornsby himself set the pace, holding down first base during the 3-hour grind and taking a regular turn at the plate. The Rajah, never over-optimistic, felt "pretty good" about the Brownie prospects.

Bradenton, Fla., March 2.—(P)—John Townsend, sophomore forward, paced the University of Michigan basketball team to a 35 to 22 victory over Illinois tonight to give the Wolverines undisputed third place in Western Conference standings.

Townsend accounted for seven field goals and a free throw, scoring all but two of his points in the first period.

Capt. Leo Durocher, who has been teaching the national pastime to the Middies at the U. S. Naval Academy, reported today, leaving the roster complete except for the holdout Dean boys, Dizzy and Paul.

Locker room gossip had it that Dizzy, who is averse to sea voyages, would put his signature on the dotted line when the Cardinals return from a 9-day exhibition series in Cuba. They leave Wednesday.

Orlando, Fla., March 2.—(P)—Buddy Myer, field captain of the Washington Senators and batting champion of the 1935 American League, reached an agreement with owner Clark Griffith today and signed for the 1936 season.

Terms were not disclosed but it is believed that Myer, holding out for a substantial increase over last year's figure, was offered $12,000.

Signing up of Myer leaves only two holdout players, Outfielder Johnny Stone and Pitcher Earl Whitehill, both of whom are expected momentarily to appear for conferences with Griffith.

Orlando, Fla., March 2.—(P)—Third Baseman Stanley Hack and Captain Woody English were given a holiday today while the rest of the Chicago Cubs squad steamed through another lively batting and fielding drill.

Hack, who had worked as hard as any aspiring recruit in camp since training started, was ordered to take a rest. English came up with trouble with his toenails and wasn't able to work.

Pasadena, Calif., March 2.—(P)—Manager Jimmy Dykes began to show signs of real concern today when none of the three holdouts, Luke Appling, Zeke Bonura and Jack Hayes, appeared in camp.

Dykes had expected that Bonura and Appling would show up today, or at least communicate with him. They did neither. With time for the first exhibition game of the season, with Seattle of the Pacific Coast League, set for next Sunday, Dykes decided to try Rip Radcliff at first base. Pending Bonura's arrival, and sent Joe Morrissey to shortstop in Appling's place.

New Orleans, March 2.—(P)—The Cleveland Indians' infielders had their first workout of the season today with Hal Trosky at first, Sammy Hale at third, Bill Knickerbocker at short and Boze Berger at second.

Roy Hughes, given an edge over Berger by Manager Steve O'Neill, had not reported today. The only other absentee is Pitcher Willis Hudlin.

Lakeland, Fla., March 2.—(P)—Manager Mickey Cochrane took advantage of "Mid-July in Detroit Weather" today to formally open the Tigers training season with a ball game. It was a four inning affair with Frank Reiber's team defeating Ray Hayworth's 7 to 1.

Eden Auker pitched for the first three innings to hold the Reiber team to two runs, but three young hurlers who thumbed their way into camp walked five men and allowed five runs.

Rudy York scored the only run for the Hayworth aggregation with a home run over the park wall.

Those teams include two from Illinois—James Millikin, Decatur, and Western State Teachers of Macomb.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 2.—(P)—Connie Mack told 50 per cent of his 1935 Athletic "hustlers" to hustle a new job for himself if he didn't care to sign with the 1936 cast.

Second baseman Hal Wartslar, who, with Outfielder Wally Moses, were described by Mack last year as "the only hustling ball players on the club," was given permission to negotiate a sale or trade involving himself.

The peppery little infielder from Canton, Ohio, didn't even get into uniform as the rest of the club—that is, those who aren't holdouts—began the two-a-day training camp practices.

Journal and Courier Offer $200 in Awards In Safety Campaign

How well do you know your traffic safety rules? The Jacksonville Journal and Courier is offering a total of $200 in cash to the persons who can find violations which will be depicted in a series of 50 pictures appearing in the Journal and Courier for a period of ten weeks.

In its campaign to stress the need for more care and safety on the public highways and streets, the newspapers have arranged to publish each day, with the exception of Sunday and Monday, a picture in which there may, or may not be, a violation of a safety rule.

Not all violations are against the law as it appears on the statute books, but all of the violations are against the best practices of safe automobile operation.

There are no strings attached to the offer. For the best answer submitted to the 50 pictures that will be shown, there will be an award of $50. For the second best set there will be an award of $25. For the third best set an award of $15 and for the fourth best set $10. There are three prizes of $5 for the next best answers and five prizes of $3.00 each for the next best answers. There are 70 prizes of $1.00 each.

Thus 82 persons will share in the awards for putting down in simple words their knowledge of the safe way to operate an automobile. It is these newspapers' contribution to cut down the rising toll of death, grief and loss of money, to prevent trouble, expense and fines, and to make the highways safer for the increased human burden.

He returned to his teaching duties over the same route Sunday afternoon.

Travels 60 Miles To Reach School 4 Miles From Home

Impassable Roads Cause Long "Detour"; Other Glasgow News

Glasgow, March 2.—The old proverb, "The longest way 'round is the sweetest way home," was contradicted very emphatically Saturday morning by Eugene Blair, teacher at the Lovelace school, about four miles south of town.

In order to reach his home here with his automobile, he was forced by impassable roads between here and the school, to drive south into Patterson, then over to White Hall, north to Jacksonville and then back through Winchester, Alsey and home, a trip of nearly sixty miles.

He returned to his teaching duties over the same route Sunday afternoon.

News Notes

In order to accommodate those unable to go to Winchester to apply for the old age pension, Mrs. Abbie Leitz, Superintendent of Public Welfare for Scott county, will be in Glasgow from 1 o'clock p. m. until 3:30 p. m. on Thursday, March 5, where during those hours she will receive applications for the pension.

River Clear of Ice

Alsey And Glasgow Pledge Support to Journal And Courier

Winchester, Alsey and Glasgow business men yesterday pledged their support to the Jacksonville Journal and Courier "Safety--or Else" campaign to reduce traffic casualties. They put their names on the pledge when it was submitted to them 100 percent!

On all sides persons in the business and professional life of these three communities expressed their appreciation for the efforts of the newspaper in waging the campaign against loss of life, grief, and loss of money.
